During the past 10 years, the number of people who have been diagnosed with AIDS has increased dramatically. In 1981, only 1,000 cases were reported. By 1990, the number had risen to over 100,000. This increase is due to a combination of factors, including the spread of the virus and the lack of effective treatments. However, there is hope for the future. Researchers are working hard to develop new drugs and vaccines that can stop the virus from spreading and help people live longer, healthier lives. In the meantime, it's important for everyone to take steps to protect themselves, such as using condoms and getting tested regularly. With the right care and support, people with AIDS can lead full and productive lives.

A different 'bull run' in Nasugbu

By Marvin Magsaysay Legaspi

When the Nasugbu Farmers' Union (NFU) first started its "bull run" program, it was just a small-scale effort to help its members. But now, it has become a major source of income for the community. The program, which started in 2018, involves the sale of bull heads and horns. The NFU has been successful in selling these items to a variety of buyers, including restaurants, hotels, and even some government agencies. The program has not only helped the NFU members, but it has also helped the local economy. The income from the program has been used to fund various community projects, including the construction of a new school and the purchase of medical equipment for the local health center. The NFU is proud of its success and hopes to continue the program for many years to come.
